DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 1-20 and 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The previous rejection is still considered effective for the same reasons cited in the previous action in reference to claims 1-20 and 24. As cited in the previous action, the reference to "computer readable medium" as defined in the specifications includes propagation or transport mediums. That definition includes "carrier waves" that are non statutory. If the applicant insists on using the term, it is suggested that the term "tangible" is placed in front of the phrase. The applicant can also use the term "memory" or "physical computer storage medium". But, the present phrase is still considered non statutory and the rejection remains.

As per claim 23, the claim does not recite a "tangible computer storage medium" and does not specify that the method is "computer implemented", therefore, it is not clear that the features are anything other than someone sitting at a terminal, pulling up a program (accessing...), visually evaluating code and defining a new test program (possibly on a sheet of paper, while monitoring (visually) a pre-established program. Note also that the accessing can also be merely printing out the pre-established program.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 1-24 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 in view of claim 21 of U.S. Patent No. 7,039,545. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the only difference between claim 1 of '545 and claim 1 of the present invention is the computer readable medium; however, claim 21 provides for the medium and therefore, the claims are considered to cover substantially the same invention, with the present claim being a broader version of claim 21. The features of the dependent of the present invention are also considered disclosed by the corresponding dependent claims of '545.

In reference to claims 21-22 of the present application, see claim 1 in view of claim 19 of '545.

As per 24, see claim 1 in view of claim 21 of '545.

The features of claim 23 are taught via claim 1 in view of claim 20 of '545.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
6. Claim 24 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gray et al. as applied to claim 1 of the previous action, and further in view of Hamameh et al., as cited in the previous action. The previous action has been explained and cited in detail and therefore will not be repeated again here. The applicant argues that his system is allowable over the references cited because the references do not teach the evaluating feature of his claims; however, no such feature exists in claim 24 and therefore, the previous rejection remains.
